THE SHERMAN LAW.

It is an interesting situation which has been created over the idea of cent simumcement from Chairman Newlands of the inter-state commerce committee that in his opinion there is little, if any, "debatable area" inthe anti-trust law as it now stands. Strange as it may seem this is the position which has been taken by many lenders in congress who feel that much more harm is likely to be done he tumpering with the law than by letting it alone. Former Attorney General Wickey sham has been a critic of the changes which it has been suggested should be made in the law. He has con tended that the law is sufficient as i stands and that danger exists in try ing to alter it. He has been a close student of that important piece of legislation and in his term more than any other was it brought into operhe congress whether it would be wise with the law or leave well enough alone. If, however, there a feeling of confidence that the administration can so amend the law that it will be bettered, there should hillty which is shouldered in attempting such a task. The difficulties in olved require the utmost caution particularly when the chairman of the committee finds little grounds for acing any progress it is far better to torfly adjusted to suit everyone, maintain what we have rather than

EUGENICS.

In avery new movement there are those who do it more harm than good by their radical positions, Because of the prejudice and opposition which they cause without making any appeal to reason, they give the cause a setback rather than a boost. They overde instead of assist and such has to a large extent prevalled in the sylvania woman she is given her freesentation of the eugenia movement. There are those who are se completely wrapped up in the principie that they can see nothing else and cannot understand why everyone else does not view it in the same light, while there are siners who are thoroughly opposed to it because as urged it too often lacks stableness
